BENTLEY GENÈVE

François Savary,
Founding Partner of Genvil.

“OUR INDEPENDENCE ALLOWS US TO OFFER TRULY PERSONALISED SOLUTIONS.”

After more than 30 years of working with some of the most prestigious financial institutions in Geneva, François Savary has joined forces with two partners, Cédric Mondada and Natalia Souto, to launch Genvil. Driven by a strong desire for independence and avoiding conflicts of interest, the three former Prime Partners executives founded the new company with the aim of becoming, above all, a boutique where every client is truly listened to and understood. We take a closer look at this entrepreneurial leap with one of the most prominent economists from French-speaking Switzerland, François Savary.

By Rohan Sant

What inspired you to start your own financial company after so many years of working at the big names of the financial sector?

The main driver of the decision has been a clear will to be independent, to decide with my partners the direction of the daily business while adhering to a corporate governance framework that we have designed ourselves. Additionally, the strong personal and professional affinities I share with Cédric Mondada and Natalia Souto, my partners, convinced me that the timing and conditions were ideal to embark on this venture. The complementary nature of our expertise was a critical factor that gave us the confidence to move forward.

François Savary with two partners,
Natalia Souto and Cédric Mondada.

We each bring a unique skill set to the table. Cédric, with over 20 years of experience in client relationship management, combines outstanding technical competencies with an extensive network of clients, primarily in Israel, the Middle East, and Europe. Natalia is one of the most capable and efficient assistant managers I have ever worked with; she is highly versatile, with a diverse and robust understanding of the financial industry. As for myself, I have over 30 years of experience in asset allocation, top-down analysis, and geo-strategic insights. My ability to simplify and explain market trends clearly to clients has proven invaluable in maintaining strong relationships with individuals from all backgrounds. Together, our complementary skills create a well-rounded and dynamic team to serve our clients effectively.

Can you share the story of how the idea for Genvil came about and the process of bringing it to life?

The name Genvil is a contraction of Genève and Villars, reflecting the locations where Cédric and I reside. It also captures our contrasting personalities – I am more of an urbanite, while Cédric is drawn to the mountains. This duality reflects the balance we strive for in our professional collaboration.

The concept for Genvil came to fruition during a lunch in a Lebanese restaurant in Geneva in August 2023. Over the course of that meal, Cédric and I both realised that we were ready to take the plunge and create our own company. From that point, it was a matter of patience, careful planning, and engaging the right people to support us through the various stages of the process. The journey was as much about the practicalities as it was about the shared vision and commitment we brought to the table. As I was free from any professional obligations, I launched the process with the aim of offering wealth management services to my limited customer base.

What sets Genvil apart from other financial companies in terms of investment strategy or philosophy?

And who are your target clients?

Genvil was not built from scratch. Cédric in particular and I both brought with us an established clientele developed over the course of our careers. Our clients are geographically diverse, spanning Israel, Dubai, Europe, and Switzerland, and they collectively represent several hundreds of millions of CHF in assets under management (AUM). This existing client base was instrumental in our decision to go independent, as their trust and support reinforced our confidence in this move.

In terms of investments, our first priority is to ensure the satisfaction of these loyal clients who chose to follow us to Genvil. Our investment strategy and asset selection are tailored to their proven needs, shaped by years of experience. We primarily employ a top-down approach to determine allocation across different risk profiles, a methodology I have refined over 30 years.

Cédric and I are deeply committed to transparent communication with our clients. Whether our investment decisions prove right or wrong, we make it a point to explain the rationale behind them. This transparency, coupled with our top-down approach, allows clients to clearly understand how performance is generated within their portfolios.

When selecting investment vehicles, we adopt an agnostic approach, with a focus on liquidity to ensure alignment with client preferences. This does not mean we exclude private assets; however, these are considered on a case-by-case basis and are not included in our global strategic allocation. We also incorporate alternative investments, with liquidity rules as a prerequisite, and have selected a few “liquid” hedge funds as part of our offering.

Starting a financial company in today's complex market environment can be challenging.

What were the biggest obstacles you faced, and how did you overcome them?

We tackled the challenges with the help of the right people and their specialised expertise. As a small company, Genvil is keenly aware of its strengths, which allows us to focus on what we excel at while outsourcing other functions to highly competent partners.

The regulatory environment has become increasingly complex, and compliance is essential for long-term success. Navigating these requirements was critical during the establishment of Genvil. Partnering with Compliance Angels proved invaluable; their support enabled us to secure FINMA authorisation in an impressive two months. The process was smoother than anticipated, though it required a great deal of patience and trust in the expertise of others.

This experience reinforced several key lessons: the importance of delegating, the virtue of patience, and the need for humility in acknowledging the limits of our expertise. These lessons continue to guide us as we grow. As an example of this delegation of expertise, Compliance Angels will continue to serve as our compliance and risk partner, ensuring that everything we do at Genvil adheres to all relevant regulations.

What are your short-term development targets for Genvil over the next year?

Our immediate focus is on stabilising our operations and further strengthening trust with our clients and partners. This involves maintaining the banking relationships that our clients already have, which span over 14 banks in various countries, including Switzerland, Dubai, Luxembourg, and Israel. Major partners include UBP, UBS, Pictet, and Julius Baer.

By the end of 2025, we aim to ensure that our operations run smoothly and to identify any necessary adjustments to our organisational structure to support medium-term growth. We are deliberately cautious about prioritising growth in the short term, as doing so could compromise the foundation we are working to establish.

Looking ahead, what is your vision for Genvil's growth and role in the financial industry over the next five to ten years?

Our long-term vision is to build a robust organisation with solid fundamentals. This foundation would open the door to external growth opportunities, such as welcoming new wealth managers into the company, provided they embrace our vision and values. To achieve this, we must establish Genvil as an attractive workplace that upholds strong shared values and uncompromising corporate governance.

How do you plan to adapt to emerging trends and challenges in the financial industry to ensure Genvil's long-term success?

Our strategy is twofold: leverage our strengths while mitigating the impact of any weaknesses and maintain a relentless focus on client satisfaction. We firmly believe that open, two-way communication with our clients is the key to evolving our services in line with their needs. Ultimately, their satisfaction is our highest priority.

What are your expectations for the key drivers of financial markets in 2025, and how will Genvil position its clients to capitalise on them?

The key drivers we anticipate for 2025 include inflation, long-term interest rates, and earnings per share (EPS). Inflation will be crucial, as the disinflationary trend of the past 15 months faces potential challenges. Diverging trends among major economic blocs could also emerge.

Global growth is likely to remain stable, but inflation could influence long-term interest rates, particularly in the US. A scenario where US 10-year Treasury yields reach 4.75%-5.00% is plausible, potentially exerting pressure on equity valuations. While we expect EPS to grow by around 10%, in line with our economic outlook, rising long-term rates may introduce greater market volatility.

To address these risks, we hedge equity exposure with alternative investments and strategic gold positions, which also serve as a buffer against geopolitical uncertainties. While we do not foresee the end of the current equity bull market, we anticipate a more volatile and less linear trend in 2025.

What defines the "Geneva feel" in financial business?

The "Geneva feel" is deeply rooted in the city's private banking tradition, which spans over 200 years. It prioritises long-term, personalised relationships with clients, characterised by tailored investment solutions and a human touch. Two-way communication is central to this philosophy, ensuring that each client's unique needs are met.

How does Genvil integrate Geneva's emphasis on discretion, personalised service, and international focus into its operations?

Discretion, personalised service, and an international outlook are integral to Genvil's business model. From the outset, Cédric and I prioritised these elements while ensuring flexibility to cater to each client's unique preferences. For example, clients are presented with multiple options for selecting their booking centre, rather than having a decision imposed on them. •

THE TRUMP CHALLENGE: BUILDING A WINNING PORTFOLIO

With the new U.S. administration set to take over, the investment landscape is polarised and volatile. Investors face critical questions as geopolitics, monetary and fiscal policy, portfolio construction, and investor psychology collide.

We explore strategies to safeguard a portfolio without sacrificing upside potential. The patterns are familiar but not identical. Just as with past pivotal moments, this challenge requires foresight, a thoughtful strategy, and optimal tactics, along with a keen understanding of history.

By Rohan Sant

America First. The incoming Trump administration's pro-growth policies will lead to further U.S. exceptionalism, with U.S. growth increasing at the expense of the rest of the world, according to Sebastian Mullins, Head of Multi-Asset and Fixed Income at Schroders Australia.

Politics

Trump has won decisively, and the U.S. has avoided a political legitimacy crisis. Trump gained not only the support of working-class white men but also many Black and Latino voters, underscoring the importance of inflation, immigration, and national security as key issues that swayed voters, stated Matt Miller, Capital Group's Political Economist.

Republicans have regained the Senate, giving the new administration momentum to push through its policy initiatives. This also allows Trump to quickly confirm heads of key federal agencies. "The organisation of Trump's team has advanced substantially since he first took office in 2017," confirmed Reagan Anderson, Senior Vice President of Government and Regulatory Affairs at Capital Group.

Regulatory agencies will likely roll back Biden-era rules and implement a more business-friendly approach. Trump is expected to work with Congress on issues related to housing, domestic energy production, and the promotion of digital assets. However, sustainable finance and alternative energy projects will come under renewed scrutiny.

Economy

Trump is inheriting a U.S. economy in relatively stable condition, supported by a strong consumer base and a robust labour market. Analysts anticipate that a fiscal package will further bolster a pro-growth outlook. Jared Franz, an economist with Capital Group, predicts that real GDP in 2025 could grow to between 3% and 3.5%, reflecting a strong trajectory for economic expansion. Inflation is expected to rise slightly, reaching levels between 2.5% and 3%. The federal funds target rate is projected to climb to 4% by 2026, an increase from the current 3%. Tariffs on imports, including rates of up to 60% on Chinese goods, remain a key policy priority. Meanwhile, higher bond yields are likely to accompany wider deficits. Despite some potential clawbacks, major initiatives like the Inflation Reduction Act of 2022 are not expected to be repealed entirely.

Within Equities, Several Themes could Emerge

The S&P 500 Index climbed to a record high after election results became more certain. Analysts attribute the rally to reduced political risk and optimism about potential tax cuts and deregulation. U.S. interest rates have priced in the potential for reflation, with the 10-year Treasury yield possibly climbing to 4.5% to 5%, according to Franz. Meanwhile, the dollar is expected to remain strong due to favourable interest rate expectations and tariff policies.

Weakened regulation and lower capital requirements may boost earnings for financial companies, creating opportunities for increased profitability. Increased spending driven by geopolitical tensions could support growth in the aerospace and defence sectors, while deregulation in health care may promote competition, though lower prices could pressure profits. In the energy sector, domestic drilling and mining will likely be encouraged, but this could result in lower commodity prices, complicating the outlook for producers. Companies reshoring manufacturing to the U.S. may benefit from favourable policies, strengthening industrial growth. Strong economic growth and tax cuts could favour smaller firms, enhancing the prospects for small caps. However, companies trading with China may face tariff-related headwinds, presenting challenges for multinationals navigating the evolving trade landscape.

Tariffs and Taxes

The administration plans to adopt an assertive trade stance, including aggressive tariffs and export controls, particularly targeting China. Congress will likely move swiftly to extend the 2017 tax cuts, with Trump proposing a corporate tax rate of 15%, down from 21%.

“One key question will be the extent to which policymakers balance tax cuts and their impact on the fiscal deficit,” noted Franz.

Geopolitics

U.S.-Europe relations could face tension over defence, trade, and macroeconomic policies. Trump may demand greater financial and military support from Europe. Though Trump has vowed to pull back support for Ukraine, it remains unclear how quickly this will happen.

Leading in a Looser Regulatory Climate

Tesla is poised to thrive amid deregulation and shifting trade policies. Tesla's dominance and strong brand make it less reliant on subsidies compared to competitors, a clear advantage in navigating shifting regulatory policies. Its reliance on U.S.-based production further reduces exposure to tariff risks, providing a robust buffer against potential trade conflicts. Additionally, the expansion of EV charging networks under a Trump administration could bolster Tesla's ecosystem, positioning it as a central player in the EV market's growth.

Strategic Neutrality

Amazon is taking a more neutral political stance to avoid past tensions. Loosened regulations may reduce operational costs and accelerate growth, creating significant distribution gains for Amazon. Additionally, Amazon's contributions to local economies align with Trump's domestic job focus, potentially fostering favourable relations with the administration.

Efficiency in Government and Security

Palantir's advanced AI and data analytics make it a strong candidate for government contracts. Palantir's tools are well-suited for an administration prioritising fiscal restraint, making cost efficiency a standout advantage. Additionally, its expertise in national security aligns with Trump's border and defence policies, further reinforcing its potential role in key government initiatives.

Blockchain Integration

PayPal stands to benefit from deregulated fintech policies and blockchain adoption. Expansion into blockchain and cryptocurrency transactions could drive growth for PayPal, particularly as the company continues to innovate in digital payments. Policies favouring small and medium-sized enterprises (SMEs) may also enhance PayPal's established merchant services, creating new opportunities for growth and strengthening its position in the market.

Broader Technology Trends

Nvidia's GPUs are critical for both AI and blockchain applications. Increased blockchain adoption could drive GPU demand, making Nvidia's hardware a vital component of this technological shift. Nvidia's technology also supports AI-driven financial systems and blockchain expansion, positioning the company as a key player in the broader adoption of these innovations.

Energy Sector Challenges

While deregulation may boost domestic energy production, it also comes with its fair share of challenges. Increased production could lead to price declines, which poses significant oversupply risks for the energy sector. Policies emphasising domestic energy independence may also reduce export opportunities, further limiting revenue potential for energy companies. At the same time, long-term demand for traditional energy sources faces growing challenges from global renewable initiatives, adding another layer of complexity to the sector's future. •

THE DIGITAL BANKING REVOLUTION

Banks have gone through a complete transformation with modern technology at the heart of their services and the rising need for on-demand banking.

By Massimiliano Masturzo, COO, REYL Intesa Sanpaolo

The Digital Banking Revolution

Over the past five years, digital banking channels have experienced a significant evolution, driven by technological advancements, changing consumer preferences, and an increasingly competitive market. This period has seen banks accelerate their digital transformation to meet customer demand for convenience, speed, and personalised services.

The main charge behind the complete revolution of banking from that which was common some twenty years ago lies with the development of smartphones and associated apps. Mobile banking quickly became the dominant channel for accessing banking services for most retail customers, with apps at first offering basic information services, such as balance cheques or direct transfer of money. In the past five years, banks have invested heavily in improving their mobile applications, making them more user-friendly, secure, and feature-rich. Apps now allow customers to complete almost all banking tasks – from checking balances and transferring funds to applying for loans and managing investments – without visiting a branch. Increasingly, customers were looking for even more features, leading to the rise of features like budgeting tools, integrated payment systems (like QR code payments), and real-time alerts, providing a more holistic financial management experience.

The private banking sector has been compelled to follow the technological revolution and meet the growing demands from high-net-worth clients for how they manage their assets and offer services as part of a competitive package that banks need to offer in order to attract and hold their clients. Perks such as concierge services, access to ticketing for entertainment services such as premieres, theatre, sports, and music are all valued by private banking clients.

Expansion of Services

It is not just simple perks that modern private banking apps can (and should) offer their valued clients. Much like in the retail sector, there is a need to provide simple and efficient access to other services private banks can offer.

Indeed, the development of 'open banking' has been transformative in markets like the European Union and the United Kingdom, where regulatory frameworks such as PSD2 (Payment Services Directive 2) were introduced in January 2016. These regulations require banks to share customer data with third-party providers, with customer consent, to foster innovation and competition. In practice, this has led to the emergence of further services from banking apps which can integrate traditional banking systems and offer personalised financial advice and services, wealth management specialists, and specific traders in commodities such as art, cars, or wine.

The Rise of Digital-Only Banks

Digital-only banks, or neobanks, have emerged as serious competitors to traditional banks. These banks operate entirely online, with no physical branches, and often offer lower fees, higher interest rates, and innovative features. Over the last five years, neobanks like Chime, N26, and Revolut have gained significant traction, particularly among younger customers who prioritise convenience and transparency. Well-established private banks may not be feeling the pinch at the present, with many of their customers coming from older generations where established relationships have been curated between clients and relationship managers.

That being said, if private banks are to stand still and not continue to develop their offering for younger high-net-worth clients, there is a possibility that they will miss out on the greatest intergenerational wealth transfer this world has ever witnessed. So, the imperative is on developing products, services, and offerings to meet the needs of the next generation.

In the last five years, digital banking apps have evolved from being supplementary services to becoming the backbone of modern banking. With improvements in mobile apps, the rise of open banking, AI-driven services, and the growing dominance of digital-only banks, the private banking sector has undergone a period of transformation.

Increasing Connectivity

As the world has become increasingly more closely connected with near-instant access to call or message anyone across the globe, every other service has had to respond to meeting demands instantly. Indeed, when it comes to private banking and the customer care that is so valued by clients, the relationship between clients and relationship managers is extremely important. The connectivity offered through private banking apps allows clients to directly engage with those they have entrusted their money to, allowing peace of mind and better financial advice to pass between financial professionals and high-net-worth clients. •

Degussa offers a wide range of international and Swiss coins – some of them are sold exclusively. Both coins and bars can be purchased in the Degussa online shop or in the Degussa branches.

Discreet storage of the highest standards

At the two Swiss locations, right in the heart of Zurich and Geneva, Degussa has safe deposit boxes in seven different sizes, which are considered the most secure in Switzerland. Since the rental is not linked to the opening of a customer account, Degussa's safety deposit boxes represent a discreet, and uncomplicated alternative to storage at a bank – the rental is usually completed within 30 minutes. Degussa offers the same service at its branches in London and Madrid as well as in all the branches in Germany. Degussa's bonded warehouses are recommended for investments in silver with a value of CHF 250,000 or more. In this case, the VAT only becomes due if the precious metal is actually delivered.

Consulting expertise and innovative service

In addition to traditional consulting services, Degussa's portfolio also includes innovative solutions. Thanks to the "Gold Lending Service", a sale is not necessarily required when clients need liquid funds. Andreas Hablützel explains: "This service in the form of an interest-bearing loan is suitable for all those who temporarily need financial resources but do not want to dispose of their physical bars for good."

International network

In addition to the two Swiss locations in Zurich and Geneva, Degussa is also represented at numerous international destinations.

In addition to the group's own presence, some sales are also carried out via exclusive partners – for example, Degussa bars are now also available at selected jewellers in Dubai. •

The GranCabrio is a finely tailored balance of tradition and innovation.

GRANCABRIO IS THE NEWEST MASERATI MARVEL

The GranCabrio by Maserati may be the most stunning convertible ever promising an exceptional travel experience and powerful performance.

Maserati has surpassed all expectations with the launch of its brand new convertible, the GranCabrio. The open-top version offers an internal combustion engine at launch in the fascinating Trofeo edition, which marries luxury with performance and driving comfort with sportiness.

Created as an open-air travel pleasure for four passengers, the GranCabrio promises exceptional thermal and acoustic comfort.

Cutting-Edge Functions

The GranCabrio provides an open-top elegance that makes for an unrivalled outdoor experience in a convertible. GranCabrio incorporates state-of-the-art technology, from the infotainment system to driver aids, to improve performance, safety, and entertainment. The convertible enjoys a unique style, designed alongside the coupé version, to interpret the transition from a hard roof to a retractable soft top in the best possible way. The GranCabrio, created in parallel with the GranTurismo, will always remain timeless as it follows the understated elegance of its lines, reaffirming the concept expressed by the coupé version with the optimal balance between aesthetic approach and unostentatious functionality. The GranCabrio is equipped with the latest Maserati Intelligent Assistant (MIA) multimedia system.

Performance

- Top speed: 316 km/h
- 0–100 km/h: 3.6 seconds
- 0–200 km/h: 12.2 seconds
- Stopping distance from 100–0 km/h: less than 37 metres

The Outward Elegance

As with all new Maserati models, starting with the MC20 halo car, the front of the GranCabrio also features vertical lights, bringing back what has become a new lighting signature for the brand. Conversely, the front grille includes the iconic 3D Trident logo.

The GranCabrio incorporates state-of-the-art technology.

The rear features the taillights launched in the GranTurismo, a mix between the classic boomerang form from many Maserati models in the past and a harpoon. Illuminated by Full LED technology, this shape also gives the GranCabrio an unmistakable, very assertive signature at the rear.

The Grand Architecture and Power Source

The GranCabrio's architecture has been designed to be modular, i.e., to house a petrol engine and electric motor with minimal adaptations. Its six-cylinder 3000-cc twin-turbo engine is the same as the GranTurismo's; it revolves around Maserati Twin Combustion (MTC) technology, which made its first appearance on the Nettuno engine, the driving force behind the MC20 super sports car, using patented pre-chamber combustion technology derived from Formula 1 engines. GranCabrio Trofeo is equipped with the 542-hp twin turbo engine.

The Grand Interior

The GranCabrio trim level is bold and sophisticated; it fully embodies the spirit of Maserati by combining traditional Italian artanship. Everything is devoted to functionality: the interior design is inspired by the concept of a pure, contemporary, and emotive design, with room for new technology.

The Ritz Carlton in Astana, the capital of Kazakhstan.

A LUXURY
WEEKEND IN ASTANA:
ROYAL STAYS AND REFINED TASTE

"Luxury begins where necessity ends," Coco Chanel once famously remarked. This phrase perfectly encapsulates Astana, the modern capital of Kazakhstan – a stunning gem of futuristic architecture and unique cultural experiences set against the sweeping steppe landscape.

By Rohan Sant, reporting from Astana

Amidst the towering skyscrapers and expansive green spaces, Astana symbolises restoration and sophistication. It offers a luxurious weekend filled with unforgettable experiences. Here's a look at three must-dos that promise to make this stay truly memorable: the Ritz-Carlton, Line Brew Reserve, and the National Opera.

A Stay in Splendour

For a luxurious weekend in Astana, few experiences rival a stay at the Ritz-Carlton, where elegance and comfort blend effortlessly. Among the city's many upscale accommodations, the Ritz-Carlton Presidential Suite stands out as truly exceptional. Located on the 15th floor, it provides breathtaking panoramic views of Astana's skyline, making it far more than just a place to sleep – it's an unforgettable experience.

The Ritz-Carlton, where elegance and comfort blend effortlessly.

Line Brew Reserve offers a culinary journey blending traditional Kazakh flavours with international flair.

Spanning over 250 square metres, the suite embodies modern elegance with an expansive layout that includes a grand, light-filled living room, a private dining area, a kitchenette, and a bedroom outfitted with a canopy bed. The suite's crowning feature, however, is the main bathroom: a jacuzzi set into an alcove seemingly suspended over the cityscape, providing one of the capital's most breathtaking views. The decor combines luxurious materials like marble and rich wood with local design elements that pay homage to Kazakh heritage.

Beyond the suite's opulence, the Ritz-Carlton's services make for a truly exceptional stay. The hotel offers a dedicated butler service, enabling guests to personalise every detail of their stay, and a spa with exclusive treatments inspired by ancient techniques – ideal for unwinding after a day of exploring. For a magical touch, visit the hotel's bar in the evening, where you can enjoy cocktails inspired by Kazakh culture while gazing at Astana's illuminated skyline.

A Meat Lover's Culinary Haven

For an unforgettable dining experience, meat lovers and gourmands love to visit Line Brew Reserve. Located on the edge of the city near the Ishim River, on the first floor of the Veil – an iconic building inspired by the folds of traditional Kazakh tents – this restaurant offers a culinary journey blending traditional Kazakh flavours with international flair, featuring an exceptional range of premium meats.

Meat lovers and gourmands love to visit Line Brew Reserve.

Line Brew Reserve is more than just a restaurant – it's an immersive dive into the Kazakh art of hospitality. Upon entering, you are welcomed by rustic yet elegant decor, with stone walls and striking chandeliers. The atmosphere is warm and inviting, perfect for a memorable evening.

Known for its grilled meats, Line Brew Reserve serves dishes crafted with the meticulous care found in Europe's top restaurants. The signature dish is a prime cut of Kazakh beef grilled over a grand central barbecue, delivering a tender bite infused with subtle, spicy flavours, paired with a diverse selection of wines from around the world. Adventurous diners should not miss trying beshbarmak, Kazakhstan's traditional dish made with horse meat and noodles – a unique and savoury choice.

The Astana Opera was founded on the initiative of the President of the Republic of Kazakhstan Nursultan Nazarbayev in 2013.

The Grandeur and Elegance of Kazakh Culture

To round out a luxurious weekend, an evening at the Astana Opera Ballet is the perfect cultural immersion. Opened in 2013, the opera house is an architectural masterpiece, inspired by classical European theatres yet imbued with a Kazakh touch. The building is grand and visually impressive, with marble interiors and intricately designed frescoes.

The Astana Opera's repertoire is a captivating blend of international classics, such as Swan Lake and Sleeping Beauty, alongside Kazakh ballets like Kyz Zhibek – a traditional tale of love and honour on the Kazakh steppe. Handcrafted costumes created in the in-house ateliers display an incredible level of detail, captivating audiences with their beauty and authenticity. Kazakh ballet combines graceful movements with traditional costumes and set designs inspired by the nomadic culture, making the experience both visually and emotionally unforgettable.

For opera enthusiasts, the main hall boasts outstanding acoustics, attracting renowned opera performers from around the world. The evening is a journey into Kazakhstan's artistic soul, featuring high-calibre performances that pay homage to the country's history and traditions. •

The Astana Opera House is striking in its splendor.

SLEEP LIKE ROYALTY: THE ULTIMATE LUXURY

In a world where quality sleep has become the ultimate luxury, few names stand out like Hästens, the Swedish bed maker that has redefined rest for royalty, elite athletes, and music icons alike.

By Rohan Sant

The phrase "sleep like royalty" takes on new meaning when you learn that the Swedish royal family, along with stars like Maria Sharapova and Drake, sleep on what is considered the finest beds in the world. Hästens, a family-owned, artisanal manufacturer, has been crafting the world's most sophisticated beds by hand for five generations. Their renowned beds can be found in Switzerland as well, with locations in Gstaad and Geneva.

A Rolls-Royce on Four Legs

Despite their dizzying price tags, Hästens beds don't claim to be luxury items. They are simply sleep environments in which every detail is meticulously designed to offer maximum comfort. Hästens aims to create a cloud-like experience for the body, relieving all pressure points.

Hästens mattresses are the result of world-renowned craftsmanship.

The materials chosen for Hästens beds are 100% natural.

The brand's designers have considered every possibility. For example, they set the bed's legs slightly inward "because you can't retract your toes if you bang them against the leg," as their catalogue humorously notes.

Zero Synthetics

The materials chosen for Hästens beds are 100% natural. Each bed contains layers of horsehair, cotton, wool, noble woods, linen, and natural fabrics – none containing petroleum-based additives. These materials contribute to the substantial weight of the beds, tipping the scales at around 200 kilograms (over 440 pounds). With up to 34 stacked layers, the beds resemble a towering mille-feuille of comfort.

A Little History

It all began in 1852. Pehr Adolf Janson, a master saddler renowned for his craftsmanship, found himself on the cusp of the horse's decline as a mode of transportation. His son decided to turn the family expertise toward bedding, using horsehair – a staple in the saddle industry – as the foundation for comfort, with each strand hand-tied. Exactly a century later, in 1952, Hästens was named the official bed supplier to the Swedish court, cementing its status worldwide. Today, from bakers seeking restful sleep to global celebrities, Hästens beds have captivated those looking for perfect, enduring rest. In fact, the brand recently found a family that has been using the same Hästens bed for over 90 years.

The company Sleep Atelier is the exclusive distributor of Hästens beds in Switzerland.

And the Cost?

Like a Ferrari or a Bugatti, a Hästens bed is priced at what you are willing to invest in quality, comfort, and well-being. Spending a third of your life in a premium bed is arguably a more lasting investment than any luxury car. To give a sense of scale, think of the cost of a Hästens bed ranging from a small Mercedes to a McLaren. Luxury, indeed.

But That's Not All

Sleep Atelier, based in Saanen, Bern, and Geneva, is the exclusive Swiss distributor of Hästens, the iconic Swedish bed maker. It also offers Harrison Spinks, a British brand renowned for its handcrafted, entirely natural beds since 1840. This combination makes Sleep Atelier unique in Europe, as the only multi-brand bedding retailer working exclusively with century-old, artisanal manufacturers. While the cost differences between Hästens and Harrison Spinks reflect factors like the amount of premium horsehair used and wage standards in Sweden and the UK, both brands share a commitment to unparalleled craftsmanship. To complete the sleep experience, Sleep Atelier also offers Swiss-made, 100% natural pillows and duvets, ensuring every detail contributes to the ultimate comfort.

Hästens aims to create a cloud-like experience for the body.

Z10 FOR HOT AND COLD BREW – FRESHLY GROUND, NOT CAPSULED

As a leader in innovation, the Swiss premium brand JURA consistently sets new standards. With the Z10, it has impressively achieved this once again.

The “epicentre” of coffee enjoyment at the touch of a button is in a small village at the southern foot of the Jura Mountains, in Niederbuchsiten in the Swiss canton of Solothurn. This is where JURA was founded in 1931 and where the now-globally operating company still has its headquarters. For 30 years, the premium brand JURA has focused entirely on fully automatic coffee machines and is the innovation leader in this field. The products represent the highest quality coffee, exceptional design, and ease of use.

Longevity Means Sustainability

Innovation and development are deeply rooted in JURA’s corporate DNA. At the JURA Campus, the modern innovation, technology, and quality centre, more than 50 engineers and specialists are working on the fully automatic machines of tomorrow. The centrepiece of the Campus is the endurance test facility with 102 automated test stations. This is where the outstanding quality of the products is ensured since durability has always been the key to sustainability for JURA. True to the motto "repair instead of discard," the products are designed in such a way that they can be serviced as good as new for many years. Components, such as the grinder, are refurbished and given a second life.

The flagship of the current product range is called Z10. A masterpiece of Swiss engineering, it doubles the range of coffee specialities. At the touch of a button, it prepares the entire range of hot products from intense espresso to trendy flat white. It also opens up a parallel universe of coffee enjoyment with cold-brew specialities. This is made possible by the Product Recognising Grinder (P.R.G.), which recognises the chosen speciality and instantly and precisely adjusts the fineness of the grind accordingly.

Hot Espresso, Cool Cold Brew

JURA has also developed the pioneering Cold Extraction Process – a refreshing top innovation in the truest sense. In this process, cold water is slowly pressed through the freshly ground coffee under high pressure. The result is a completely new way to discover coffee – refreshing, energising, and wonderfully balanced in flavour. The superlative premium fully automatic machine can be controlled via a 4.3" touch display and the Blue Crystal Rotary Switch. The speciality selection makes operation particularly simple and intuitive. Those using the free JURA Operating Experience (J.O.E.®), can benefit from additional features and get state-of-the-art operation on their smartphone and even their smartwatch.

Z10 prepares the entire range of hot products.

Z10 is the flagship of the current product range.

Design plays a central role at JURA, as is repeatedly confirmed by internationally renowned design awards. Its design language does not follow short-lived fashion trends but is characterised by clear shapes and strict surfaces. This aura of German-speaking Europe makes the products into interior design objects that still look fresh even after many years. The technological quantum leap of the Z10 is reflected in its sculptural design. The convex-concave front section is proof of the attention to detail and absolute manufacturing precision.

About JURA

Founded in 1931 and headquartered in Niederbuchsiten (canton of Solothurn), the Swiss company JURA Elektroapparate AG is an innovation leader in fully automatic speciality coffee machines. Its products stand for the perfect coffee result from fresh beans, always "freshly ground, not capsuled" at the touch of a button. The range includes both fully automatic machines for home and professional appliances with a daily output of up to 200 cups for the business and office sectors. The traditional brand has grown into a global player in recent years and is active in around 50 countries worldwide. •

FROM BIEL TO THE WORLD'S BEST TABLES: THE 10-YEAR JOURNEY OF SKNIFE KNIVES

Dive into the scrupulous world of the famous Swiss knife with the Biel-based knife producer sknife that's celebrating the 10th anniversary of its steak knife this year.

Sknife, a pioneer of Swiss knife craftsmanship, is celebrating its 10th anniversary. For the past decade, the Biel-based knife manufacturer has epitomised precision and perfection. Adorned with four international design awards, sknife knives are set on the table of the world's most prestigious hotels and restaurants with over 250 Michelin stars.

The Hôtel du Cap-Eden-Roc in Antibes, considered one of the best hotels in the world, has even commissioned an exclusive cutlery collection with night blue handles from sknife. In addition, over 15 3-starred top chefs in the world prefer sknife knives.

A Splendid History

Since 2003 sknife has been a major distributor of high quality knives. The sknife knives were developed in collaboration with top chefs looking for a Swiss product of highest quality and perfection.

In 2015, sknife delivered the first steak knife. Also the pocket knife with a plain bearing made of high-tech ceramic has found its way to knife collectors and especially the high-quality version in damask is extremely popular. To round off the range, a one-handed, high-quality sommeliers knife is in development.

From the smelting of hot steel in Emmental to the final blade honing, the knives are handcrafted in Switzerland.

In 2015, sknife delivered the first steak knife.

Anniversary Limited and Special Editions

In commemoration of this milestone, sknife has unveiled exclusive limited and special editions. The limited edition damask steel pocket knife boasts of meticulously selected handles crafted from driftwood and a blade forged from 800-layer torsion damask stainless steel – each piece is a testament to the uniqueness of the material.

The special edition of the steak knife set, featuring drift wood handles, is also an aesthetic masterpiece, shaped and refined by years of contact with water.

Synonym for Quality and Innovation

The design of the steak knife was collaboratively crafted with renowned Swiss chefs, boasting a non-contact cutting edge, flawless weight distribution and an elegant silhouette. The inaugural prototype was, based on sketches, fashioned from raw steel by the esteemed cutler, Hansjörg Kilchenmann in Basel.

The Swiss Knife Craftsmanship for Global Success

In addition to the sophisticated design and precision craftsmanship, the international breakthrough of the Swiss knife is also based on two new technological processes: as pioneer, sknife built up the industrial forging of knives from surgical and damask steel in Switzerland as well as the stabilisation of Swiss wood, which is unique in Switzerland, to make it suitable for gastronomy. The knives and cutlery are also well established in hotels by the sea and on yachts, matching even the colour of the interior.

From the smelting of hot steel in Emmental to the final blade honing, the knives are meticulously handcrafted in Switzerland. The precise finishing touches and honing are conducted in the sknife knife manufactory in Biel, under the expert guidance of cutler Timo Müller and his team.

Borrowing from Biel's Watchmaking Precision

CEO and Founder Michael Bach is often asked why they produce knives in Biel. "Quite simply because we manufacture knives with the precision of a watch and with a high level of craftsmanship," he replies. The pocket knife with slide bearings made of high-tech ceramic and components from the watch industry combines this precision with functionality. The pinnacle of the collection is the exclusive full damask steel version, featuring a blade back adorned with 51 diamonds.

From elaborate knife production and personalisation using engraving to sharpening tools and care sets, sknife offers everything for the daily use of knives.

Visit Their Knife Manufactory

The sknife manufactory is set to become a place that celebrates the art of knifemaking. The company entertains enthusiasts from all over the world for an exclusive sneak peek into the art of knife production. There are monthly guided tours and knife enthusiasts can take a look behind the scenes to see the cutler's manufacturing of the sknife knives. More and more knife collectors are finding their way to Biel – in addition to the monthly "Open Manufactory" tours.

LES CLOS POMPADOUR: A UNIQUE LEGACY FROM THE HOUSE OF POMMERY

Listed as a UNESCO World Heritage Site, the Clos Pompadour are a part of Pommery's rich history as they continue to be a laboratory of the best Champagne.

Nestled in the heart of the city of Reims, atop the prestigious Butte Saint Nicaise hilltop, the Clos Pompadour are an integral part of the Domaine Pommery and its history.

The Clos Pompadour, bearing the charming name of Madame de Pompadour, is a 25-hectare walled vineyard within the Pommery Estate. A real open-air laboratory for the creation, these walled vineyards of the Champagne region have produced an authentic and sustainable wine from a single vineyard in Champagne. To complete its perfection, it exists only in magnum.

These Clos and the magnificent Cuvée extracted from them are fundamentally linked to the passion of the men and women who work there. They showcase the zeal of the Director of Vineyards, who from the outset fell under the spell of this magnificent terroir and its subsoil, which has preserved the old vines that make it up. They display the passion of the vineyard workers who have conscientiously chosen the best wood when pruning, selected the best shoots when disbudding and aerated the foliage when trellising to produce the best fruit; the passion of the tractor operators who have tirelessly hoed and scratched these soils throughout the year to ensure perfect tending. They are a result of the hard work of the head winegrower, who throughout the year kept a watchful eye out for any possible outbreaks of disease and prevented them with the utmost respect for the environment. The viticultural technicians have travelled many kilometres in the rows of vines during the month of August to analyse and taste the precious berries. The pickers have meticulously picked the best bunches of grapes over a period of ten days. Finally, it was the passion of the Cellar Master, who determined the harvest date for each grape variety and each plot, and then isolated them to better blend them in the spring. The 2005 vintage is a vintner's vintage. Seemingly easy, winemaker Clément Pierlot had to choose the harvest dates with precision and take the necessary risks to achieve the exceptional ripeness required to make Clos Pompadour.

Tasting Notes

On the Eye: Pale gold with green-silver reflections.

On the Nose: The first nose reveals subtle hints of both the floral and plant worlds: alternately notes of jasmine, verbena and orange blossom intrigue and beg to be tasted.

This aromatic melody soon becomes more complex, with fruity notes of greengage before a delicate toasty base enriches the multiple dimensions of this wine. With its rare elegance, this nose fully embodies the complex identity of the 2005 vintage and the uniqueness of Clos Pompadour.

On the Palate: The attack is characterised by a smoothness preceding a generous volume, a perfect blend of depth and elegance. The persistence on the palate is particularly long, offering a genuine mineral symphony. The finish is distinguished by aromas of very ripe, almost candied citron, revealing a subtle bitterness that is a sign of the multi-dimensional signature of this cuvée.

Drinking occasions: Naturally oriented towards the culinary world, the 2005 vintage of Clos Pompadour is the perfect accompaniment to a fillet of sea bass with fennel or risotto with black Truffles.

Where to Buy

Les Clos Pompadours is reserved for very special occasions and only produced in 2000 magnum bottles and sold around CHF 850.

In Switzerland it can only be ordered directly by the distributor Vranken Pommery Suisse SA, 10 Avenue de la Gare, 1003, Lausanne.

CHAMPAGNE GOSSET: SEVEN CENTURIES OF HERITAGE, CRAFTSMANSHIP, AND EXCELLENCE

With seven centuries of heritage and craftsmanship, Champagne Gosset – the oldest Wine House in Champagne – embodies a timeless dedication to excellence, elegance, and the authentic expression of terroir.

As the oldest Wine House in Champagne, dating back to 1584, Champagne Gosset has a heritage that spans centuries of craftsmanship and dedication to excellence. The story begins even earlier with Jean Gosset, who cultivated the family vineyard in Aÿ as far back as 1484, during the Renaissance – nearly a decade before Christopher Columbus set foot in America. Then, in 1584, Pierre Gosset officially established a wine trading house, focusing on still wines over a century before Champagne wines became synonymous with sparkling bubbles.

Gosset Champagne's prestige was recognised by royalty, even gracing the coronation feast of King Charles X in 1825.

For over 400 years, Champagne Gosset has crafted wines that embody its unique philosophy: "The role of the bubbles is to enhance the wine." This guiding principle, combined with a steadfast commitment to independence, elegance, and excellence, shapes the character of every cuvée produced by the House. Each bottle reflects Gosset's pursuit of perfect harmony, showcasing the richness of Champagne's noble terroirs through carefully selected grapes from vineyards across the region. This thoughtful approach enables Gosset to create balanced blends that capture the essence of each vintage year after year.

The signature Gosset style is unmistakable, made possible by a singular vinification method that preserves the natural freshness and vibrant aromas of the grapes. This method, alongside extended ageing in the cellars, gives Gosset wines remarkable longevity, depth, and complexity, delighting connoisseurs around the world with their richness and balance.

In addition to its classic Champagne offerings (non-vintage, vintage, white, and rosé), Champagne Gosset also releases exceptional cuvées such as the "Compte d'Âge" and Celebris ranges, which showcase the House's spirit of innovation and commitment to excellence.

Visitors are warmly welcomed at Gosset's home in Epernay. Here, one can experience the House's legacy firsthand with a guided cellar tour and tasting by appointment, or savour a glass in the Champagne bar while strolling through the picturesque park.

Please note: Gosset Champagnes do not undergo malolactic fermentation, preserving the natural malic acid of the fruit for freshness and structure. The "Compte d'Âge" concept, launched in 2016, includes non-vintage blends with extensive ageing – 21 years for standard and 12 years for rosé varieties. •

RICHARD MILLE, MCLAREN LAUNCH THE NEW RM 65-01 CHRONOGRAPH

Richard Mille's RM 65-01 Automatic Split-Seconds Chronograph McLaren W1 thoughtfully mirrors the cutting-edge technology and performance of the McLaren W1.

Richard Mille and McLaren Automotive have once again come together to launch the RM 65-01 Automatic Split-Seconds Chronograph McLaren W1. This is the fourth collaboration between the two as they combine innovation in watchmaking and supercar design. Limited to 500 pieces, this watch reflects the spearheading technology and execution of the McLaren W1, a successor to the iconic McLaren F1 and P1 supercars.

The RM 65-01 beautifully blends advanced horology and automotive innovation. The watch takes design inspiration and performance cues from McLaren's flagship W1 supercar, a hybrid marvel with 1,275 PS, known for its aerodynamic engineering and ground breaking materials.

Designed For Function And Utility

The watch has been developed over a period of nine months with multiple prototypes, featuring custom-built components like the papaya orange strap and McLaren's "Speedmark" details. The bezel crenellations reveal the Carbon TPT® caseband, mimicking McLaren's aero-cell architecture. Its skeletonised dial is also inspired by McLaren wheel rims, with practical colour-coded subdials in papaya orange, yellow, and blue.

Achieving Ergonomic Excellence

The watch's Function Selector Crown is inspired by McLaren's drive shafts and operates like a manual transmission with settings for winding, date adjustment, and hand-setting. Its adjustable rotor adapts to the wearer's activity for optimised winding. A rapid-winding system charges the 60-hour power reserve efficiently, and a function selector crown mirrors a car's transmission system.

functionality. This high rate of oscillation enables the split-seconds chronograph calibre to record elapsed times down to just one tenth of a second, while the movement's vertical clutch and the two six-column wheels ensure precise and ultra-smooth activation of the chronograph.

The RM 65-01 McLaren W1 is also perfect for daily use thanks to both the built-in robustness of the 480-part movement and its variable geometry winding rotor. The view through the crystal enables the grey electroplasma treatment of the grade 5 titanium baseplate to be fully appreciated.

Technical Expertise

Powered by the RMAC4 calibre, it operates at 5Hz (36,000 vibrations/hour), allowing precision up to 1/10th of a second. Its famous Split-Seconds Chronograph has been designed for high accuracy in timing, featuring a vertical clutch and 6-column wheels. The watch has a rapid winding system with a 60-hour power reserve that can be quickly replenished using a unique Quartz TPT® pusher.

Thoughtfully Selected Materials

The watch case is made of Carbon TPT® with a titanium bezel; the design mirrors the W1's aerodynamic contours. In terms of durability, the watch surpasses all expectations. The 480-part movement sits on chassis mounting rubbers for enhanced shock resistance.

Salvador Arbona, Technical Director of Movements at Richard Mille, said, "This project perfectly illustrates Richard Mille's philosophy of constantly pushing technical boundaries to create innovative watches that include the latest watchmaking developments with a functional, practical, and high-performance approach."

The legendary collaboration is the evidence of shared values between Richard Mille and McLaren, focusing on innovation, high performance, and functional aesthetics. This partnership is now in its ninth year and symbolises a mutual commitment towards serving performance and engineering to the rest of the world.

About Richard Mille

Richard Mille is a world-renowned watchmaker who introduced his first timepiece – the RM 001 Tourbillon – in 2001, followed by tourbillon RM 002. His goal was to create a new, ultra-high-end luxury segment within the high-end watch business. Today, the Richard Mille watch collection boasts of more than 70 references, each designed and produced with the same passion and uncompromising principles that guided Richard Mille's first creation.

WALDIS Tresore develops products that offer maximum security in their most beautiful form.

WHEN SECURITY AND DESIGN MERGE

Security and appealing aesthetics are two things that often don't go together.

And yet, the latter significantly influences how much and how often we use a product.

The high-quality safes from WALDIS Tresore combine both.

Most people have to choose between safety and aesthetics. Bulky safety shoes, functional bicycle helmets, or shapeless reflective vests – all seem to lack any sense of design. Many products that serve safety purposes are not particularly appealing in appearance. It gets worse that often buyers weigh whether to use a product or not due to its look.

However, logic dictates that appearance shouldn't be a factor influencing a safety-related decision. Yet, as is often the case, it still is. It is therefore even more important to consider this aspect during product development. Often, it seems that once functionality is achieved, appearance is barely considered.

Generally speaking, the word 'safe' does not exactly evoke the image of an aesthetically pleasing object for many people. Instead, one imagines a nondescript, bulky cube that is best placed in the basement or another place where it is not visible at all. As a result, the safe is really only used in urgent cases, quite sporadically and very rarely. This, in turn, leads to valuable favourite watches and expensive jewellery being left in the dressing room at night so that they are immediately ready for use whenever needed. This seems practical and simple, but it is also quite risky, considering the chances of burglary.

The Feeling of Security

A safe is anything but a necessary evil. It is filled with everything that is particularly important, and knowing these items are absolutely secure is an incredibly liberating feeling that allows one to breathe a sigh of relief and relax. Based on design-centric protection, WALDIS Tresore specialises in products that offer maximum security in their most beautiful form.

Luxury and Functionality

WALDIS Tresore safes are equipped with everything anyone can imagine and wish for to meet their needs. With an elegant and high-quality interior, the safe is a treasure trove of pure joy. When the first light from the interior shines outward upon opening the safe, the jewellery sparkles in the light. The velvety surface provides the ideal foundation for gently and safely storing jewellery, while watch winders ensure that the hands never stand still.

Not only the interior of the safe but also its exterior is fully customisable. As a result, the safe can be placed wherever it is most convenient. The safe acts like a statement piece in the living room or bedroom due to its visual appeal.

The safe that can be elegant and understated, striking and opulent, or rustic and down-to-earth – fits perfectly into any environment. WALDIS Tresore's safes give a feeling of peace and calm without compromising on the aesthetic value. •

About WALDIS Tresore AG

For over 40 years, WALDIS Tresore AG has been developing and manufacturing safes, secure storage rooms, and armoured doors with the highest possible security. Using exclusive materials and with the utmost precision, the Swiss company turns visions into reality, combining maximum protection with the most beautiful design. ROSSIGNOL VIZION: THE FUTURE OF SKI BOOTS HAS ARRIVED

The Rossignol Vizion revolutionises ski boot design with features like the overlap shell structure, steel spine, step-in liner, and GripWalk® soles. It redefines performance and convenience for alpine enthusiasts.

The world of alpine sports is incomplete without the innovation Rossignol offers. The ski brand has once again redefined ski boot design with the launch of the Vizion, a revolutionary ski boot that wonderfully combines high-performance engineering with unmatched ease of use.

The Vision Behind the Vizion

From the very beginning, the Vizion, true to its name, was conceived with a bold vision for the future of skiing. It was designed as a boot that could bridge the gap between performance and convenience. Rossignol's design team registered four patents during the development of this groundbreaking model, ensuring that every element of the boot, from its structure to its liner, sets a new standard in ski boot technology.

The Overlap Shell Structure and Double Buckle

At the heart of the Vizion is a new, "overlap shell structure," inspired by traditional alpine boot designs but reimagined to offer unparalleled ease of entry. This innovative shell opens wide at the rear, allowing skiers to slip in their foot effortlessly. Another innovation exclusive to the Vizion is the double buckle system, a patent-pending feature that offers two distinct functions: the inner buckle releases the cuff via a cable mechanism, while the upper buckle locks the boot in place for traditional alpine power.

© Louis Garnier

The Power of the Steel Spine

One of the most striking features of the Vizion is the steel spine, a rugged, articulated component that reinforces the boot's high-back. With patent-pending technology, this steel spine provides additional support and acts as an anchor for the cuff release mechanism, ensuring that the boot delivers solid rear support.

Step-In Liner Technology

Rossignol's Step-In Liner, also patent-pending, is another breakthrough in comfort and performance. Designed to follow the cuff as it tilts backward, the liner adapts to the skier's movement, providing a snug, responsive fit. Elasticated areas allow the liner to stretch and move with the boot, and it can be easily removed and refitted.

High-Performance Features for the Discerning Skier

Three internal lasts – 98, 100, and 102 millimetres – allow for a precise fit, while Dual Core Vizion and Generative Design technologies optimise the boot's structure for maximum energy transfer and minimal weight.

A seamless, one-piece toe box improves comfort and performance, and pre-mounted GripWalk® soles ensure superior traction and ease of walking. The Rossignol Vizion embodies a fusion of performance, comfort, and innovation, creating a product that's as thrilling as it is effortless.

Collège du Léman opens the doors to a most promising future.

SHAPING TOMORROW'S INNOVATORS THROUGH STEAM EDUCATION

At Collège du Léman (CDL), students engage with a technology-rich, STEAM-focused curriculum from the earliest years, enhanced by inspiring collaborations with MIT and Apple that empower them to become adaptable, creative thinkers ready for the future.

The Future of Learning: Embracing Innovation at Collège du Léman

Globally, education systems are increasingly recognising the importance of interdisciplinary learning, and CDL stands at the forefront of this movement. By embedding STEAM (Science, Technology, Engineering, Arts, and Mathematics) education at every academic level, from preschool to secondary school, CDL prepares students not only for academic success but for leadership in a world where digital literacy and creativity are essential. Through each level of their curriculum and exclusive collaborations with institutions like MIT and Apple, CDL ensures that students gain more than just academic knowledge – they learn how creativity and adaptability are key to success in the modern world.

Building Skills for Success from an Early Age

At CDL, the journey into STEAM begins early. In the Pre-school years (ages 5-6), young learners are introduced to coding and problem-solving through engaging activities. With coding presented as an accessible language, children develop the skills to understand how technology works and bring their ideas to life. Gabrielle Schneebeli-Aubert, Pre-school Principal, notes, "By learning coding at an early age, students gain confidence in using technology, building foundational skills in logic, creativity, and collaboration that they will carry with them throughout their educational journey." This early exposure sets the stage for a deeper engagement with STEAM concepts as they grow.

Expanding STEAM Concepts in Primary School

This foundational approach to technology and problem-solving in the Pre-school years sets the stage for more advanced STEAM exploration in Primary, where students begin applying early lessons to real-life challenges. In Primary, STEAM concepts are integrated through the International Primary Curriculum (IPC), which offers hands-on, thematic projects. For example, in the "Active Planet" project, students explore natural disasters like earthquakes and volcanoes while connecting the STEAM disciplines. They investigate seismic activity and design earthquake-resistant structures, applying engineering principles, using technology to analyse real-life designs, and incorporating artistic elements. Additionally, mathematical skills are applied to measure, scale, and test the stability of their models. These interdisciplinary projects deepen students' understanding of the world, while fostering creativity, teamwork, and practical skills.

Cross-Curricular Learning: Bridging Disciplines in Middle and Secondary School

As students move into middle and secondary school, the STEAM curriculum becomes even more interdisciplinary. In these years, students tackle more complex projects that require collaboration, innovation, and critical thinking. By participating in cross-curricular projects, they gain experience in collaboration, working in teams to generate innovative ideas and learning from their peers. Cristina Brazzelli, Secondary School Physics Teacher and STEAM Coordinator, explains, "When students and facilitators enter the STEAM room, we all become learners who float in a sea of ideas, our minds become more creative, discussions are more open, and collaboration strengthens because everyone wants to contribute to the success of the project in all its phases. One of the aspects that I value the most is that the STEAM projects are targeted to the benefit of the community, thereby fostering our students' character development and citizenship skills."

One such project is the "Climate Action Simulation Summit", where students role-play global leaders from various sectors – business, government, and civil society – to explore solutions for mitigating climate change. Developed by the

MIT Sloan Sustainability Initiative and the UMass Lowell Climate Change Initiative, this simulation is interdisciplinary, bridging the IB Programme curricula of Physics, Geography, Environmental Systems, Business, and Economics. Organised for the first time in January 2024, the summit allows students to apply their learning to one of today's most urgent global issues.

Empowering Global Problem Solvers: Student-Led STEAM Projects

Beyond the classroom, CDL's STEAM Club provides students with additional opportunities to explore specialised areas and expand their understanding of scientific and technological concepts. The STEAM projects are completely student-led, and teachers facilitate the discovery learning approach.

Within the STEAM Club, a group of IB1 students developed the "RainBrain device", an innovative tool designed to detect rain levels and provide alerts when precipitation reaches potentially dangerous levels. The students used a water sensor and an Arduino programmable circuit board with an Integrated Development Environment (IDE) to bring their concept to life. This project allowed students to apply coding, engineering, and environmental science to real-life problems, fostering teamwork and technological skills along the way.

A Unique Collaboration with MIT Boston, USA: Inspiring Creative Problem-Solving

One of the most impactful aspects of Collège du Léman's STEAM education is its remarkable collaboration with the Massachusetts Institute of Technology (MIT). As part of Nord Anglia Education's global network, CDL provides its students with access to a prestigious, immersive programme at MIT, recognised worldwide for its cutting-edge work in STEAM.

Each year, a select group of CDL students participates in a week-long, hands-on experience at MIT. This opportunity allows students to engage in interactive STEAM activities, collaborate with peers from around the world, and gain direct insights into groundbreaking research. Throughout the week, they meet MIT professors, work alongside graduate students, and participate in experiments that bridge multiple disciplines, fostering both creative and critical thinking. The programme emphasizes collaboration, innovation, and practical problem-solving.

Zaina, an IB1 student at CDL, was one of the students selected for the trip last year. She reflected on her experience:

At Collège du Léman, students engage with a technology-rich, STEAM-focused curriculum.

“Being at MIT was eye-opening. It made me realise the limitless possibilities of science and technology. The level of innovation there is incredible, and it inspired me to think bigger and push my own boundaries.”

This unique opportunity has led to significant outcomes, such as students pursuing advanced studies in STEM fields. Notably, many CDL graduates have continued their academic journeys at prestigious institutions like the École Polytechnique Fédérale de Lausanne (EPFL), further strengthening their expertise in STEAM disciplines.

Empowering Education: CDL's Renewed Apple Distinguished School Certification

In addition to its MIT collaboration, CDL proudly holds the renewed Apple Distinguished School certification, a distinction shared by only two schools in Switzerland. This reflects the school's commitment to supporting teachers in delivering innovative learning experiences. By fostering a culture that encourages educators to engage with Apple Technology, teachers empower creativity, critical thinking, and collaboration in classrooms.

“It's all about empowering students and supporting teachers,” says Jacob Rosch, Head of Educational Technology at CDL. “We are honoured to be part of this innovative group, which inspires us to create impactful learning experiences for our students.” This renewal reinforces Collège du Léman's dedication to cultivating a dynamic and creative learning environment.

Shaping Tomorrow's Innovators

Through its comprehensive, interdisciplinary STEAM curriculum and strategic collaborations, Collège du Léman equips students with the critical thinking, creativity, and adaptability needed to thrive in an increasingly complex world. By integrating these subjects at every level, from preschool through secondary school, CDL fosters a solution-oriented mindset that connects academic disciplines with real-life challenges. The hands-on projects, such as coding, climate simulations, and the student-led initiatives, encourage collaboration and practical problem-solving, helping students develop resilience and a forward-thinking approach. As a result, CDL ensures its students are not only prepared for future academic and professional pursuits but are also ready to lead and innovate in a fast-paced, technology-driven world.

A GLOBAL VISION WITH STRONG LOCAL ROOTS

The Lyceum Alpinum Zuoz is a grade 7 to 12 Swiss international boarding school with a history stretching back over 120 years, located near St. Moritz in the heart of the scenic Engadin valley.

The Lyceum Alpinum Zuoz is located in a spectacular alpine surrounding at 1750 metres above sea level. The Lyceum campus overlooks the village of Zuoz and covers an extensive site with its own sports fields within walking distance of the Zuoz ski area. It is located in an environment notable for its health-promoting properties: high altitude, low pollen, dry, and sunny climate.

At Lyceum Alpinum Zuoz, about 220 international boarders and 110 local day students study for the Swiss Matura, the IGCSE, and the International Baccalaureate Diploma Programme. The school philosophy is based on respect for tradition combined with innovative thinking, and emphasises values such as respect, openness, responsibility, engagement, inquiry, critical thinking, creativity and balance.

At Lyceum Alpinum Zuoz, students benefit from a holistic education that fosters their intellectual, personal, physical and creative growth. In a unique setting of outstanding natural beauty, the school offers a living and learning environment where students feel valued, safe and secure. They are inspired to discover and develop their own interests and creativity. They are encouraged to engage actively in the school community that is built on trust, honesty and empathy.

Sports is Key

On the one hand, sports and games promote personal fitness, but on the other hand, they also strengthen team spirit, support mutual respect, and promote fairplay. In addition to the compulsory sports lessons and weekly games, the Lyceum Alpinum Zuoz also offers soccer, basketball, volleyball, tennis, fives, cricket, golf and, during the winter, ice hockey, skiing and snowboarding. At championships and tournaments, the school teams successfully compete for ranks and medals. On Wednesday afternoons, there is a wide range of courses on offer. On weekends, cultural and team sports activities as well as skiing and snowboarding are part of the programme.

Educational Objectives

The Lyceum Alpinum Zuoz conveys not only traditional values but also a modern cosmopolitanism and the basis for mastering future challenges. The focus is on personal character development and student-centred learning. Critical thinking, academic curiosity and leadership skills, a sense of responsibility and community service, respect and tolerance for other cultures as well as creativity and global networking are at the heart of the school. Students receive an education that promotes intellectual, physical, and emotional balance within a close-knit school environment.

Academic Programmes

Students from more than 45 nations as well as from the region live and learn at the IB World School. In the Swiss Matura section, a broad general education plus the choice of subject specialisation in various focus areas is provided. The Swiss Matura allows exam-free admission to all Swiss universities and opens doors to renowned international universities.

For students wishing to gain entry to the Swiss Matura programme, the German Intensive Year is a preparatory programme. The programme is designed for students whose mother tongue is not German and who have been educated in a different school system.

Following the Pre-IGCSE and the IGCSE programmes, the International Baccalaureate Diploma Programme is a challenging two-year course that prepares motivated learners for universities. In addition to independent thinking and learning, core subjects such as English, other languages, mathematics, sciences, social sciences, as well as music and art are taught.

Art, Music and Theatre

The Lyceum Alpinum Zuoz focuses on the individual development of talents and personal growth. Experimental, creative, handicraft, critical – the arts have many facets. Those who enjoy theatre, music or visual arts are given many opportunities to experiment – in theatre groups, art projects, workshops, in the choir as well as the orchestra, the school band or in private instrumental lessons.

The Zuoz Globe revives the old theatre culture of Zuoz. It is an original stage construction, which fits seamlessly into the oldest part of the Lyceum Alpinum. Made from local larch, it is a flexible theatre space in a fresh interpretation of Shakespeare's Globe. It is home to the school's two performing ensembles and a magnet for the entire cultural life of the region.
